

SEWHA Conference 2005
Virginia Military Institute
Preston Library
Lexington, VA
October 14-16, 2005
In Honor of Andre Gunder Frank

Friday, October 14, 2005

1:30-2:45

New Approaches and Methods in the Teaching of World History I

Chair: Rebecca Wendelken & Carl Dyke, Methodist College, Fayetteville, NC

Immigration, Migration, and Diaspora as a Theme in World History

Dorothea Martin, Appalachian State University, Boone, NC

Lies Teachers Teach about World Religious History

Joel E. Tishken, Columbus State University, Columbus, GA

The Relevance and Legitimacy of Medieval World History

Wilfred Bisson, Keene State College, Deland, FL

3:00-4:15

Incorporating Regions & Peoples into the World History Course

Chair: Marc Jason Gilbert, North Georgia College and State University, Dahlonega, GA

Jewish History as World History

Rob Willingham, Roanoke College, Salem, VA

Including Korea in World History: Ideas and Sources

Michael Seth, James Madison University, Harrisonburg, VA

Incorporating Latin America into World History

Gary Van Valen, Roanoke College, Salem, VA

4:30-5:30 Parade

5:30-7:15 Reception & Dinner

7:30 Ross Dunn, "Beyond Multiculturalism: The World History for Us All Project"
Introduction by Tom Davis, Virginia Military Institute, Lexington, VA

Saturday, October 15, 2005

8:30-9:45

The Impact of Area Studies Upon World History

Chair: Daniel Klenbort, Morehouse College, Atlanta, GA

Red East: Russian Adventures in Turkestan, 1920s

Katya Vladimirov, Kennesaw State University, Kennesaw, GA

Retelling an Old Story: Newly Declassified Documents of the Tlatelolco Massacre, Mexico 1968

Kevin Witherspoon, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL

A Tale of Two Arms Races

Jonathan Grant, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL

10:00-11:15

New Approaches and Methods in the Teaching of World History II

Chair: Susan Olden-Stahl

Teaching Terrorism

Alice Pate, Columbus State University, Columbus, GA

Whose World History Is It?: A Topical Approach to Teaching World History since 1500

Donald Wright, SUNY-Cortland and The Citadel, Cortland, NY

Teaching the World History of Agricultural Development: A Revealing Perspective on the Character and Crisis of Modernity, or How We Went from Common Fields to Mad Cows

Mark Tauger, West Virginia University, Morgantown, WV

11:30-12:45

The Global Impact of Colonialism

Chair: Bruce Vandervort, Virginia Military Institute, Lexington, VA

Eating Colonialism

Marc Jason Gilbert, North Georgia College and State University, Dahlonega, GA

Imperial Britain, South Asia, and the Middle East: The Modern Evolution of the Dar Al-Islam

Michael C. Low, Georgia State University, Atlanta, GA

Conceptualizing World History

Chair: Dorothea Martin, Appalachian State University, Boone, NC

Humanities Out There: A Model for Teaching and Researching World History

David Johnson, Appalachian State University, Boone, NC

Humans and Nature: The Changing Anthroposphere

Daniel Klenbort, Morehouse College, Atlanta, GA

1:00-2:45 Lunch

SEWHA Business Meeting

3:00-4:15

Human Rights in World History

Chair: Chong K. Yoon, James Madison University, Harrisonburg, VA

The 1948 Universal Declaration of Human Rights: A Genealogy

Philip Riley, James Madison University, Harrisonburg, VA

Left and Right Perceptions of Human Rights

Henry Myers, James Madison University, Harrisonburg, VA

Creating a Course and a Book on Global Human Rights

Mary Louise Loe, James Madison University, Harrisonburg, VA

4:30-5:45

Sources and the Teaching of World History

Chair: Kevin Witherspoon, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL

Connecting the Local to the Global: An Oral History Project in Joliet, Illinois
John F. Lyons, Joliet Junior College, Joliet, IL

Discovering World History Online: Teaching with Primary Sources
Kristin Lehner, George Mason University, Fairfax, VA

Material Worlds for Material Girls and Boys: Using Material Culture in the Context of World History in the Classroom
J. Nathan Campbell, Episcopal School of Dallas, Dallas, TX

6:00 Dinner

7:15 Alan Lebaron, "In Honor of Andre Gunder Frank"

7:30 Heidi Roupp, "Professional Development in World History"